

Shri. Parminder Jeet Singh is an Executive Director at IT for Change, and has previously worked as a police officer. In the traffic department at Pondicherry, he used the new ICTs for an innovative yet inexpensive 'system transformation' that greatly enhanced the efficiency of traffic law enforcement. This experience put him on the path of exploring the potential of new ICTs for governance and developmental purposes. He is also the Project Coordinator of the Mahiti Manthana project at IT for Change, with the overall objective to develop ICT-based systems, so that the information and communication processes of women's self-help groups are strengthened.
